Excerpt: .but about six years ago she transferred her interests to Lorenz Co., who now issue all her writings. This firm has recently (1902) closed a contract with her for all she can produce for the next ten years. Mrs. Ashford's work embraces a great variety of compositions. It comprises four sacred cantatas, the first of which, The Prince of Peace, met with large and instantaneous success, and was republished in England as were all her subsequent cantatas), where it met an enthusiastic reception. Even from faraway India letters of congratulation concerning these charming compositions have come to her. The other cantatas are: Cross and Crown, The Light of Life, and Easter Dawn. A leading musical critic writes that the only series of cantatas published in this country that will compare with those of Mrs. Ashford is that of Dudley Buck, in which he celebrates the leading events of the church year/ Besides these, she has written nineteen sacred songs and eighteen secular songs (for some of these she composed the text as well as the music); six-part songs for male voices (two of which were written especially for, and for many seasons sung with great success all over the country by, the famous Schubert Quartet); one book of Organ Voluntaries on Favorite Hymns; one hundred and twenty anthems; a full morning and evening service (Episcopal); thirty-eight teaching pieces for piano; one string quartet; one flute solo; twelve vocal duets, trios, and quartets; one...
