Nuclear energy policy issues facing Congress include questions about radioactive waste management, research and development priorities, power plant safety and regulation, terrorism, and the Price-Anderson Act nuclear liability system. The Bush Administration has stressed the importance of nuclear power in the nation's energy policy. The Administration's FY2004 budget request includes $35 million for a Department of Energy (DOE) effort to encourage deployment of new commercial nuclear power plants by 2010, about the same as the FY2003 appropriation. The Administration is also seeking $4 million for the Nuclear Hydrogen Initiative, a new DOE program in which nuclear reactors would produce hydrogen to fuel motor vehicles. The House cut the Administration's nuclear energy request slightly (H.R. 2754, H.Rept. 108-212), while the Senate Appropriations Committee recommended a $44.8 million increase (S. 1424. S. Rept. 108-105). Energy legislation under consideration on the Senate floor (S. 14) would authorize loan guarantees and other financial assistance for construction of up to 8,400 megawatts of new commercial nuclear generating capacity. Also included in the bill's nuclear title is a $500 million...
