Brand New Book ***** Print on Demand *****.Excerpt from The World's Fair: Some of Its Principal Sights and Exhibits In this year of our Lord 1893 Chicago is the most famous city of all the world, the one toward which the thoughts of all enlightened people most naturally turn, the center about which the world of business and progress gravitates. The settlement of Chicago had scarcely begun sixty years since, and the story of the city's growth reads like a fairy tale. Its first census was taken in 1829, and showed less than ten families outside Fort Dearborn, which contained a small United States garrison. Soon afterward the prospect that a canal would be constructed from that point to La Salle, ninety-six miles distant, began to attract settlers; some 400 came in 1831, followed by others in 1832, when the first school was opened with twelve pupils, and the first Sunday-school with thirteen. Work on the canal began in 1836, the city was incorporated in 1837, and in 1840 the census showed a total population somewhat below 4,500, with a total valuation...
