Pursuant to a congressional request, GAO reviewed how various health care reforms could affect Medicare-eligible veterans' demands for health care services, focusing on the: (1) extent to which veterans use the Department of Veterans Affairs (VA) to obtain services not extensively covered under Medicare; and (2) income and private health insurance coverage of Medicare-eligible veterans who chose either Medicare or VA services. GAO found that: (1) Medicare-eligible veterans make substantial use of VA services not extensively covered under Medicare; (2) many Medicare-eligible veterans use VA specifically to obtain prescription drugs, inpatient psychiatric care, and long-term nursing home care services; (3) Medicare-eligible veterans who use VA health care facilities generally have lower incomes and less private insurance than veterans who rely solely on Medicare; (4) significant out-of-pocket costs have influenced veterans' decisions to use VA health care services; (5) adding Medicare benefits or reducing beneficiary cost sharing could reduce the demand for VA health care services; (6) changes in VA benefits including eliminating access restrictions to outpatient services, improving access to care, and expanding entitlement to free care, could increase the demand for VA health care services; and (7) the continued availability of traditional fee-for-service care under Medicare and the reluctance of Medicare beneficiaries to enroll in health maintenance organizations could reduce veterans' willingness to enroll in VA health plans. This item ships from La Vergne, TN. Paperback.
